

Proposal Letter

Mr. Sontag,

For our PBL project, we have chosen to answer the question “How did Greek fashion influence fashion now and throughout the decades?”

We are going to be researching Greek fashion such as clothing, cosmetics, hairstyles, jewelry, and footwear. We will apply our research to our project by creating models, timelines, posters, other forms of presentations, and a power point presentation. Being teenage girls we are very interested in the topic of fashion, but we know little of the history of this topic. Now is a great time to learn! This project stretches our comfort limits by demanding that we put ourselves out there for critical evaluation, and it also demands good time management, and interaction and accountability with our teammate. History repeats itself, as does the fashion world. We are trying to discover whether or not Greek fashion has or has had a large influence through the progression of time and fashion. We bring the interest for the topic, hands-on abilities, creativeminds, adventurous spirits, and a love for learning.

We are not sure who we will be working with, learning from, or interviewing, but our options are open. We will use the Project Based Learning steps to work on, develop, and produce a final project. We plan to use many resources so that our final outcome will be as accurate and perfect as possible. These resources, just to name a few, could be people, articles, Internet, experimentation, books, ad other means of information the challenge we are expecting most would be time management but he calendar provided will help us eliminate this worry from our minds.

The outcome of our research would be a presentation that demonstrates knowledge on the subject and a sincere interest as well. Our conclusion or product will be a model of some sort that presents the clothing, cosmetics, hairstyles, jewelry, and footwear of ancient Greece. Our fashion model will demonstrate our research, again, by showing knowledge on the subject, and an accurate picture of Greek fashion. We hope to learn from this project both in knowledge for the subject and in good organizational and teamwork skills.

Sincerely,
Judy Haynes and Kayla Ray
